WALKED 3,500 MILES.

A WOMAN TRAMPS FROM SAN FRANCISCO TO MONTREAL.

Having No Means She Sets Out for Her Native Province and Bravely Accomplished Her Journey in Spite of Severe Hardships—She is Now in an Hospital.

After a walk of 3,500 miles, from San Francisco to Montreal, Mme. Leda Lavelle lies in a cot in the Notre Dame hospital, dying from the hardships suffered during her unprecedented tramp. She reached here Thursday night, having been several months on the road, and was recently picked up on the wharf in an unconscious condition. She was worn to a shadow and so weak that she could not raise her head from the coverlet of her bed in the hospital. Mme. Lavelle told a reporter that twelve years ago she emigrated from Montreal to San Francisco with her husband. They had three children and managed to get out a bare living. A year ago her husband died and then her three children were carried off by smallpox. Friendless and without money, she determined to return to Montreal, where she was born, in order to die there. With a horse and buggy she started out, depending on the charity of the people she met for food. After travelling 700 miles her horse gave out, and she had to sell it for $20. She then started on foot, on her tramp, from town to town. She suffered greatly from hunger and weakness. Sometimes for a day she would be without food. Her boots were worn out and she had to tie strips of her dress around her feet, but still she tramped on. Once in a while a friendly man would give her a lift, and several times train hands permitted her to ride on freight trains. Some few little trinkets she had were sold to buy food, but generally she begged from door to door. Often she slept by the roadside when night came on and there was no farm house near. Mme. Lavelle is probably the only woman to have ever crossed the continent on foot under such peculiar circumstances.

DROPPED A FORTUNE.

One Canadian Sues Another in the States for $630,000.

The suit of Thos. Millburn, of Toronto, Canada, against William F. Collins, also a Canadian, but now of Bloomfield, N. J., has been settled by the decision of Judge Child in Newark. The defendant owed $630,000 on a mortgage, and after defaulting on the mortgage, Collins secured control nine years ago of the patent for Lippin's shoe brake, used on railroads, and was loaned $630,000 by Millburn, when the latter entered into the membership of the Lippin Shoe Brake company, of Bloomfield, he holding Collins' stock as security for payment of advances, the hypothecation of stock, etc. The sum of $272,000 worth of stock was given to Janness and Walters, formerly owners of the Almeria hotel, Broadway, N. Y., to secure payment of money due them by Collins for board. They afterwards transferred that to Millburn, when he paid Collins' debt. This prevented Collins from carrying out an agreement with Millburn to deliver the stock, and the latter procured a judgment by default, which was reopened afterwards by order of the court. During the hearing on the re-trial Judge Child directed the jury to find a verdict for the defendant, which they did.

W. C. T. U. AND CIGARETTES.

Winnipeg Ladies Will Look After Dealers Who Are Violating the Law.

The regular weekly meeting of the W. C. T. U. took place recently Mrs. Dobson, president, in the chair. Though the attendance was not as large as usual the meeting was of an interesting character. There was some discussion on the cigarette question. The union has the name of several dealers in Winnipeg who have been violating the law with regard to children and though the ladies shrink from moving in this matter they intend for the future as far as lies in their power to see that the law shall be enforced. Reports of programme and finance committees were also read and discussed. The programme committee has arranged a programme for the various meetings for the coming two months, concerning which further information will be given after through the press.

The union being desirous of adding to the funds in the treasury, contemplates an entertainment in the near future; it also desires to acknowledge with thanks $5 donation from Mrs. G. H. Young.

Affairs in Alaska.

A Mr. Seaman, of Victoria, has lately returned from a long prospecting tour in Alaska. He told some things there on the Yukon and in the interior as utterly hopeless for the ordinary white man, who can but work a few days or weeks at most in the year, the climate being one of ten months very hard winter out of the twelve. Mr. Seaman describes the illicit sale of whiskey and rifles to the Indians of the Interior as a terrible abuse and expects that there will some day be a great measure of the few scattered Indians who are being driven out of Alaska. Indians made with whiskey, who will afterwards retreat in safety to inaccessible mountain fastnesses.

An Honest Bank.

A suspended bank in Arizona hung up the following: "This bank has not busted; it owes the people $36,000; the people owe it $36,000; it is the people who are busted; when they pay we'll pay." But the bank had no business to give those $36,000 which it held in trust for one portion of the people to another portion who could not stump up on call. That is where it made a mistake; a mistake that has subjected it to the humiliating suspicion of having "busted."

The Way Martin Browns Pickled Apples.

By SUSAN TRAIL PERRY.

"You will have to help us with the apple-picking-to-day, Martin," said Mr. Brown at the breakfast table.

A look of disappointment came over his son's face. Martin had made an engagement to go fishing with Lucius Brooks that morning. It was Saturday, and therefore a holiday. Martin did not say a word until after his father had finished his breakfast and gone to the barn, then he said to his mother: "I wish those old apples were in Ballyhack! I want to go fishing with Lucius to-day. It is the only chance I'll have for a month."

Mrs. Brown was just putting her cream into the churn, and a look of sadness came over her face, for the boy's troubles are always the mother's troubles as well, and she answered, "I'm very sorry about it, Martin, but your father has an opportunity to sell ten barrels of apples to Judge Hinton, down at 'The Corners,' and you know apples are very scarce this year, and the pay for them will be quite an item. If you hurry and finish your share of the apples, perhaps you can go to the Big Pond this afternoon with Lucius."

"I don't want to go at all, unless I can go this morning," Martin replied, in an unpleasant tone of voice. "I should think father might hire Julius Jones and Tom Keeler to help him to-day."

"You know that would take off a large share of the profits, and your father has had a bad season this year, and needs all the money he can get. He expected to make considerable out of his potatoes, but they are rotting badly, and he will lose most of the profits on them."

"We are in an unlucky family," replied Martin, "always in some kind of trouble."

Last year father lost two of his best cows, and this year I don't know why everything that is laid comes to us."

"My dear child, you forgot all the good things God has given us; all the blessings of this year and every year."

But Martin heard his father calling him just then and he went out, walking with a slow pace toward the barn. His good mother sat down and began to churn, but her face kept the troubled look on it. She was thinking of what her father said, and wishing he were more willing and pleasant about doing his part of the work. She would have been the happiest mother in the world, if he had gone out of the door whistling as he did when things went right with him.

It is strange when mothers are so kind and loving and self-sacrificing to their boys, that boys will worry them so much. Mothers are the best friends they have in the world, and yet everything they can to make their boys happy, and yet they will try them at times very severely.

Martin's mother would have been very glad to have had him go fishing that morning, but his duty to his father, who was working very hard, and his son's best education and advantage that he could, ought to be the first consideration. Mrs. Brown went to the west window and looked out after a time to see if Martin was picking the apples. He had begun his work, for she could see glimpses of his blue blouse through the leaves of one Greening tree. But when he was happy about his work, he always whistled, and he did not now. He was picking the apples with a slow, steady motion, and the boy stopped every few minutes to wish he could have gone fishing, and to think over all the unpleasant things that had ever come to him. And while he was in this befogged state of mind, two boys of his own age rode by on fine ponies, with a groom following on behind. They were city boys, who had been summering in the elegant house on the hill.

"There!" exclaimed Martin; "why couldn't I have been a rich man's boy, and had a pony and a groom, and nothing to do except what I had a mind to. Then I should not have to cut apples. I'd change places with those fellows mighty quick, if I only could."

Martin did not know that at that very moment these two boys were saying to each other, "Do you wish you could pick apples with that boy in the blue blouse over there? What fun it must be to wear old clothes and do just what you please on a large farm and have much more real pleasure than city boys do."

"Yes, there is much more freedom in that kind of life. Such fun to feed the chickens and the pigs and milk the cows."

The boys cast longing glances back in the direction of the greening tree, just after they passed. Lucius came along with his fishing pole.

"Hallo, Tim!" he called out. "Going fishing?"

"Go on. Got to pick apples all day," Martin answered in a rasping tone of voice.

"Too bad. I'll go round and get Si Stevens, then," and off Lucius went.

He didn't seem to care very much about him after all. "He didn't seem put out because I couldn't go."

There were a number of exasperating circumstances in his work that morning, and Martin's state of mind was ready to make the most of them. After a time Martin saw his mother walking down toward the apple-tree. At first he thought he would put on an injured look and be very cross when she spoke to him. But when he looked through the branches and saw his mother's face, and how very pretty it looked with the little red shawl tied about it, he thought, "What a mean boy I am to trouble mother."

"How are you getting on, dear?" his mother called out in a kindly tone.

"Not very well." And he could not help adding, "Did you see those boys with their groom and all the style? And Lucius has gone for Si Stevens."

And now he has been helping his father to pick apples all the morning, and has denied himself the pleasant time he has been anticipating all the week. Don't you think his mother is proud of him?

Somehow, those encouraging words made the apples put on a great deal more life and a lot of them went into the large basket hanging on the limb.

"I hear that the Brewster boys have no mother; they must be lonely little fellows, left so much of the time with only their father. Their father has to be away most of the time," Martin's mother said.

"I didn't know that," Martin replied. "When I saw them riding by, I wished I was in their place; but I don't now."

"I'm sure if my mother said that, I could live, that all there is about it. I'd rather have my mother, than all the money and ponies and grooms in the world."

Martin began to whistle, and he came down the tree in a trice, and put his arms around his mother's neck and kissed her three times. It was wonderful what a little thing like that will do for a mother.

"What time is it?" he asked.

"Nearly eleven o'clock," she said; "and I must go back and get the dinner started."

"When the horn blows, nothing I shall have more than barrels filled, if mother happens."

Martin worked with a will and a purpose, and so did his mother. Her heart was so light that she stepped over the farm house kitchen floor with a quick, firm tread, and got the apple-dumplings in the steamer just as the clock struck eleven.

"Martin is so fond of them," she said.

It was warm so she opened the west door, and into the kitchen came the sound of her dear boy's voice singing.

"Oh, do not be discouraged. He will give you strength to conquer. And keep you to the end."

And the mother put up a silent prayer of thankfulness that Jesus had given her boy strength to conquer, and prayed that he would keep him to the end.

"You've done a good morning's work, my boy," said his father, when they sat down to dinner. "I was sorry to disappoint you to-day, but I'll free trade relations would have upon the Canadian farmer reports having found that while nature has endowed with equal advantages the farmer on each side of the line the American farmer has a more extended market and receives a higher price for his produce and at the same time pays from 15 per cent to 50 per cent less for his agricultural implements."

"Father is just as good as he can be, too," thought Martin. "He has had a hard time this year, and I am going to do all I can to help him out of it."

"I don't care to go fishing to-day, I'd rather help finish the apples," he answered, as he whistled on his way to do the moon chores at the barn—New York Evangelist.

Conclusive Evidence That a Missing Boy Went to a Watery Grave.

The mail steamer Evange from Friday harbor has cleared up the mystery surrounding the disappearance of young Harry Evans, the son of the light-house keeper at Admiralty head who was thought to have been murdered or kidnapped. The United States revenue launch picked up a lifeless body floating bottom up, at Deception pass furnishing conclusive evidence that the boy was drowned. Young Evans was at Smith's Island on Monday and sailed off two hours before breaking one of the severest storms ever experienced in this section.

Financial Aspect of the U. S. Government.

The senate of the United States met recently but the discussion on the question of the amendment of the journal was not taken up for some time when Mr. G. M. Stewart (Rep. Neb.) took the floor. Keep the Works in good order

"Dear Sir,—Your 'Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills' are the best regulator for the system that humanity can use. Life is as the time piece; it is delicate and many of its works. A tiny particle of foreign substance alters the mechanism, and the works stop. As the obstruction grows, the irregularity becomes greater, until at last, what could have been remedied with little trouble, in the beginning, will now require much more in thoroughly cleansing the system. As I feel it is a blessing to have a slight derangement in one of these rapidly, what would cost, in the beginning, have been cured with little trouble, become almost fatal. To prevent this, I advise all to purify the system frequently, by the use of Mr. Morse's Pills, and so preserve vigor and vitality."
Yours faithfully,

FOR SALE BY ALL DEALERS

“Mungo,”
“Kicker,”
“Cable.”

The local government has sold the million dollars' worth of bonds it took power at the last session of the House to issue, for 97 cents on the $8. As these bear 4%, and the previous issue of one- and-a-half millions bears interest at 5%, the province now has a million of two- and-a-half millions around its neck bearing an average of four and three-fifths or $115,000 a year—more than the quarter of our entire revenue. What is strange to many is that those people who contend a good deal has been made in selling second mortgage bonds bearing 4% at about par defend the government for selling first mortgage bonds bearing 5% for very nearly the same figure. If the last deal is nothing better than average as it certainly is not, then those who made the first one salted the province very badly. The truth now is that with the subsidies of the country bartered away in this manner for interest of debenture debt, the resources of the country will be so crippled there will be nothing left to assist public improvements no matter how deserving—in short there will be serious trouble in meeting the ordinary expenses, let them be pruned to the lowest figure an economical administration, whenever there may be one in power, can possibly prune them. "But," the people will naturally ask, "what have we got for all this money?" That is where the query comes in. We have the N.P.R. that was to give the people 10 cents a bushel reduction in wheat rates costing $335,000 and now a bankrupt Co. we have $150,000 sunk in the Souris branch that would have been built about the same time whether the money had been given or not, about $100,000 more doubtless going to the C.P.R. for a Dauphin branch, that public enterprise should construct, $75,000 in the Pineau branch, much required, and about $100,000 more given to the municipalities along the M. and N. branch as an offset to the money spent in the south on the N. P. lines. If these latter had not been subsidised the M. and N. people could not, of course, have looked for the assistance they got. In these combined we have an explanation for about $950,000 and but the three public buildings at Winnipeg, Portage la Prairie and Brandon that should not have cost more than $75,000 apiece or $250,000 all told for the remaining $1,000,000.

No doubt a considerable balance will be on hand to buy up constituents to public works when the next elections come around, but even if such a purchase was justifiable, from a Greenway point of view, it appears to be too early to borrow the money to do it with. When Greenway took office there was not a dollar

Even with the tariff restrictions removed as demanded in their memorial, the farmers of the Canadian Northwest must not imagine they will meet with the success they desire without some different methods on their own behalf. The shopkeeper who puts the bulk of his capital into shop fixtures, and buys other effects simply because he is told they are cheap, and can get credit for them, is as sure to go to the wall as the sun is to rise and set. A farmer in the same way should not back up most of his available means in land, buildings or improvements, better put some into stock and necessary implements, which in reality are his working capital. The buildings and improvements that can be made serve the purpose for the time, should subserve his purpose until his stock of cattle, horses, implements, &c makes him capital to enable him to branch out into other improvements. It is expected that the changes suggested in the tariff would make the average farmer cultivating a quarter section about $600 a year better off, and this $600 is all he could build on to improve his purpose. Then the man who could not make money with $600 a year more than into his purse in this way must come to the conclusion to prosper he must change his methods. It is not likely in this country to see farmers with five or six head of horses and a couple of rapiers and other implements accordingly with but one cow, and perhaps none, buying butter, pork, eggs, &c. and without a vegetable after the first of November. Larger indeed must be the wheat crop, and higher must be the price that will enable a farmer who operates in this way to make money no matter what may be the tariff changes of the country.

Of course it takes money to buy lumber to house cattle and stock, but so it does to buy implements and protect them from the weather as they should be as soon as bought—if the machinery and horses are bought on time, the chances are the end will be a failure, and much better it is never to make a commencement than to make it on a plan that must end in disaster. The proper plan is to work on a much smaller scale even if on one that will only make a certain living, and allow the rise in value of land consequent upon improvements to be the profits of the farming operations. Big things in prospects are all very nice, but they do not often materialise in farming on a speculative scale, so it is infinitely better to work on the basis of security, even if the profits from year to year are of much more moderate proportions.

It is a surprise to many that notwithstanding all that is spent for government from year to year, our legislation is still in such a crude, defective state. A case came under our notice recently where a farmer was sued for $7.00 a balance of account, and before the debt was fully cleared off it cost him $28.00. Now this is simply infamous. We have 40 representatives in the Local House, and it does not appear to be within the intelligence of any of them to devise a means by which this useless drain on poor people may be averted. There is a law in England by which postmasters are constituted bailiffs for the service of writs for small amounts. The writs are sent to them in registered letters and their delivery to members of the debtor's family is considered service. In this way heavy costs are averted. This is especially desirable in this country where long, expensive triploser service have to be made.

Again look at our exemption laws. They are said to be drawn up in the interest of farmers, and yet while the latter are allowed $500 worth of household furniture they are cut off with a month's provisions. This looks like tempting satan with virtue. As there is scarcely a farmer in the country with that amount in furniture, and as half of it is unnecessary to farm well, would it not be much better to leave him say $100 worth of household effects and six months provisions for himself and family, and seed for next year's crop. It is astonishing to us that there should be so many representatives in the House who call themselves farmers' friends, and who never once look after matters of the kind. This is the way the lawyers want the thing, and this is the way it is left.

The Portage Tribune says the electors of Winnipeg, should, in the contest to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of H. J. Macdonald, express their condemnation of the railway rates, and in the same breath it announces the name of Mr. Joseph Martin as a probable Grit candidate. If this is not gall, we fail to know where it is to be found. Yes! denounce the railway rates, and send Joseph Martin, the man who foisted the N.P.R. with that innumerable letter upon the people, to Ottawa to do it. If Martin

The Northern Pacific Railroad announces some extremely cheap excursion rates to Chicago and return for the benefit of World's Fair visitors.

Tickets on the basis of one fair for the round trip will be on sale at the Northern Pacific office on Monday, July 24th, 31st and Aug. 7th, limited to return from Chicago on trains leaving that city either four or eleven days from date of sale. For further particulars call at Northern Pacific Ticket office.

The win, in which some tax payers criticize the city council now always is amusing. The taxes are higher and the conclusion is the Aldermen have either been extravagant or dishonest and put the money into their own pockets. They forget altogether that the city debtors are not the city council but the city itself, paying 5 per cent interest or $25,000 a year all told, and these debentures have all been authorised by popular rate-payers, a vote with which every real property holder has as much to do as an alderman. If the people did not want to pay the taxes they should not have voted for the laws under which other taxes are created. That is the short and the long of it.

The sporting fraternity of this city were long questioning themselves as to whom the "Jack Donovan," the alleged sprinter, of this city really was. It now transpires he is none other than Jack Allan, the professional of Toronto. He was "licked" easily, however, by Wood's of Winnipeg, on Tuesday last.

CHAS. MCKENNA ARRANGED AT THE POLICE COURT.

Charged of Theft and Assault—Ducharme who was Stabbed in no Danger—Hans Hansen Pleads Guilty.

The use of intoxicating liquors in Win-nipeg is still doing its work, as will be seen from the fact that a young man of twenty summers named Chas. McKenna has become a victim to its subtle influ-ence; and while in this state of intoxica-tion drew a weapon which shed the blood of a fellow human being named Ducharme. He is only a young fellow and apparently is a dupe in the hands of one more experienced in crime than himself. But here we find him behind the prison bars a criminal.
A pal of McKenna's was seen by a re-porter recently at the police station. His story was as follows: "The kid, that's Charley McKenna, is pals. We are both from St. Paul. I know Charley's square and he never cut that halfpenny. 'Course we were all in liquor; we had just come back from three days and were having a time. This halfpenny chap he knocked me silly with a dab on the nose; and two or three of the fellows; had a fall with him. They went out from the bar where we was, but I didn't go."
The stabbing took place on North Main street, near an hotel, where McKenna and his pal, who also assumed that name, though he allowed this morning his real name was (Henry), were registered. "I was trying to get funds to em-ploy counsel for the defence of his pal. The case is in the hands of the at-torney-general's department, and it is said witnesses will be brought who actually saw the stabbing."

A MIDNIGHT ASSAULT.
A. C. P. R. Man Assaulted by Three Men on Notre Dame Avenue.

A C. P. R. employee at Winnipeg, named Edward Smith was on his way home a few nights ago about 12 o'clock. As he was proceeding along Notre Dame avenue he was as-saulted by three men. A blow in the face knocked him to the ground and stunned him. His pockets were then rifled. His assailants probably believed that he had just drawn his monthly pay, and that they would get a haul but Smith had mis-lead the pay car and had only a dollar on his person which they took. Smith was found by a passer-by in an unconscious state and Dr. Mac-donnell was immediately telephoned for. He was promptly on the spot and after restoring the man to con-sciousness discovered that among other injuries his jaw was broken by the chin the result of a heavy blow.

ORANGEISM IN IRELAND.
Dr. Kane Makes a Bold Speech Against the Catholics.

Dr. Kane the Orange Grand Master made a bold and anti-Catholic speech at a National Protestant con-gress in Belfast recently. Rome he said demanded that the state es-tablish and endow an ultramontane university in Ireland but he hoped that would never see the dis-gusting spectacle of an English states-man conceding the impudent demands of the hierarchy, whose members had been the patrons and the strength of hell that had successfully started up in Ireland in recent years.

A LOTTERY.
Proceeds to be Devoted to the Separate Schools of Winnipeg.

We have learned recently on ex-celent authority that a lottery has been organized through liberal friends of the separate schools in Winnipeg and that a large number of tickets have been issued and will be sold throughout the Prairie city and province. The first prize is a $400 lot in Winnipeg and there are about a dozen prizes of minor value which will be distributed to the lucky ones on a certain day. It is said to be under the patronage of two clergymen of the Roman Catho-lic church.

How to Climb.
Many of our youths have entered business this fall for the first time; it is a new field to them. All such should glean by the way as much help and as many suggestions as possible. Here is what one man affirms:

When a boy enters the employ of any one on a small salary, he gives close attention, and takes an in-terest in his work with a view of gaining a thorough knowledge of it. He is making his services invalu-able to his employer and is working in the right direction. The great secret of success with a boy or man lies in the thoroughness of his work. The boy who is always on time careful and industrious, re-gardless of the wages he is receiving ere long will find himself sought for and honored for his fidelity and integrity.

In entering on any line or calling, no matter what it may be a boy should determine to be master of the situation and endeavor to learn all that will prove of advantage to his employer. He should enter into his work with heart and soul.
If he does he will seldom be out of employment no matter how hard times may become.

Moral deportment decision of character and good habits are al-ways absolutely essential to the permanent success of any one and are the only true safeguards of life.
The young man who sows the seeds of industry perseverance, prompt-ness and integrity and cultivates them assiduously, will in time reap a harvest fruitful with honors, wealth and fame—Young People's Weekly.

CARRIED A PASS BOOK.

An Ex-Winnipeg Composer Proceeds to Raise Funds in Grand Forks.

The Grand Forks Herald of a re-cent issue, has this interesting story: "A few days ago a young man arrived in the city, claiming to hail from Winnipeg. He wore a good suit of clothes, an intelligent counte-nance and spectacles. He was a ty-pographer, and carrying a card of the International Typographical union in securing temporary employment. He abused his fortune, however, by tak-ing advantage of this opportunity to procure a bank "pass" book and check book from the printing office, and proceeded to do a little finan-cial clearing of the brilliant kind. The pass book bore the name of the Second National bank on the cover and he inscribed his name as Chas Odell thereon and proceeded to cash him-self with deposits to the amount of $1,600. The check book was doctored by tearing out a few of the checks, leaving stubs, showing that he had received any of his money. Thus provided with "funds in bank" to the amount of $1,550, he was ready for business. Without much difficulty he secured in securing $2 for check which he tendered Paul Hogan, an east side saloon keeper. Bright and early Mr. Hogan presented the check at the bank where it was of course, promptly de-clined with the information that the bank people had never heard of Mr. Odell, received any of his money on deposit. He then enlisted the services of officer Sullivan and soon afterward the festive young man was arrested by the police. He was very indignant, declared it a mis-take and declined to be taken to jail. The superior persuasiveness of the officer, however, won. He was committed to the city jail. Last evening he was invited across the river and a few minutes later was in the custody of the chief of police. In the position of honor in the jail there it is possible that some interesting developments may be made in the young man's case. It is stated that Tuesday evening he attempted to dispose of what purported to be a note for $750 given by Ben Frank-son and duly secured by mortgage. According to his own account Odell has had a various experience and has been helped out of numerous scrapes by a lawyer who is a jour-nalist in Milwaukee. He also claims that he is a brother of Frank Odell, the well known typewriter inven-tor."

Odell is well known by many printers in Winnipeg. He arrived here some time ago and had since been "subbing" at several of the offices in the city, leaving for the south recently. It is said that his reputation is not a very good one, and that he served a term of three years in a Wisconsin jail for for-gery committed at West Superior.

GOLD FIELDS OF THE YUKON.
Plenty of the Precious Metal, But it is Difficult to Reach.

Some destitute Alaskan miners who were recently landed in San Fran-cisco by a United States revenue steam-ship brought a dismal account of the gold fields of the Yukon country. They do not dispute the claim that the mineral wealth exists there but they say that a great part of it lies under impetuous mountains of ice. Moreover the high cost of liv-ing renders the prospects of the average miner, extremely dubious. Flour sells for $12 a 100 pounds and sugar 25 cents a pound and other necessities of life are proportionate-ly as dear. For a meal of corn beef and beans in the whole country 75 cents is charged. Inclement weather too, limits the mining season to three and a half months each year. "Mining in Alaska," said one of the prospectors "is different from mining in any other region I ever heard of. In prospecting for a claim you first have to dig up from six inches to three feet of snow, and beneath that is a mass of ice of ques-tionable depth which has to be thawed before you strike bedrock."

PERSONAL AND POLITICAL.
Items of Interest in Connection with Some Prominent Men.

It is reported to-night that Hugh John Macdonald's resignation as member for Winnipeg has been handed to the speaker of the commons, and that a warrant for a new election will be sent to the govern-ment soon.
Ernest Kemp, an oyster expert, who came to Canada from Whitefish, Eng-land, some months ago to investigate the causes that have depleted the Canadian oyster beds, has made a report. Mr. Kemp suggests a close season from June 1st to September 15th in each year, a total prohibition of oyster gathering on Sundays; limitation of the size of the oyster to be caught, and the stopping of oyster fishing through ice.

DEATH OF REV. JAS. WELLWOOD.
Ex-School Inspector of Minnesota Passed Away on Tuesday.

Word was received here yesterday of the death of Rev. James Wellwood M. A. of Minnesota, which occurred a short time back in Southern Califor-nia. Mrs. Wellwood who had received the telegraphic message that her husband had died at once for Cal-ifornia. The body of her husband will be brought to Minnesota for inter-ment.

deceased has been well known in Manitoba since about 1880 when he came to this country. His home was formerly in the county of Leeds, Ont. He pursued his studies in Mon-treal, graduating from McGill univer-sity and afterwards settled as a Presbyterian minister at Cote des Neiges where he remained until his death. He was subsequently ap-pointed school inspector for the Brandon district. His health was not improved by the change and for several years past he has been spend-ing the winters in the south.

The deceased leaves a wife who is a sister of Mr. J. B. Mitchell, of Win-nipeg, and five daughters. The eldest of whom completed a recent course of study at the normal school.
Mysteries of Electricity.
Electricity in the many forms in which it has been made useful to man has become so familiar to most persons in recent years that it is rather a matter of surprise that in some of the most interesting mani-festations it remains to-day as mys-terious, an agent as it ever was. The tremendous power of a stroke of lightning is beyond all possibility of imitation by artificial means and yet the power is seldom exercised twice in precisely the same manner. Sometimes the lightning appears to exert its full might like an angry giant and its blow then resembles a shot from a hundred-ton gun-ning, and sometimes it is, and it re-nders, tears and scatters broadcast whatever object it encounters.
An instance of this terrific ex-plosive force is the lightning which de-molished in England a year or so ago a great oak-tree which for generations had been the pride of a neighborhood. Occasionally all this fearful power is expended upon an insignificant ob-ject as happened near West Louis-ville in Kentucky, last June, when a turkey hen, sailing high in the air at the beginning of a thunder-storm, was suddenly annihilated in the sight of several spectators by a bolt of lightning that darted from the clouds.

The same mysterious force mani-fests the variety of its powers by such performances as photographing for a mile by photographing it really is—the forms and colors of neighboring objects upon the sur-face of whatever thing has felt the force of its assaults. Near the town of Warren in Ohio, last July, a young man who had taken refuge under a tree during a thunder storm was killed by lightning, and upon his breast and other parts of his body appeared wonderfully distinct imprints of the leaves and branches of the tree.

We often hear accounts of the strange behavior of what is called ball lightning; and still another form in which the electricity of the atmosphere occasionally manifests itself is the so-called St. Elmo's fire, which illuminates the yards of a ship at night and the masts of European scientific papers have re-cently contained an account of a very singular appearance of this kind of electric light, which was witnessed near the town of Gott-schee.

Two gentlemen walking along a country road during a snow-storm, saw what seemed to be a glimmer coming out of the new-fallen snow. It was presently discovered that the light enveloped the cap on the end of a stick carefully put in the snow. When he raised the cane in the air little sparks seemed to dance forth from it. There are many of these electrical exhibitions furnished by nature which occur in the presence of per-sons who do not take the trouble to observe them carefully and after-wards to report what they have seen. Some of the things that now appear mysterious would cease to be so if more people would learn to use their eyes and their brain at the same time—Youth's Companion.

have seen men thaw out thirty feet of ice and then get nothing. He admitted, however, that occasion-ally the turkey hen "struck it rich." "We learned before we left," he says, "that there were four men who had each taken out $10,000 worth of gold dust the summer there. There are several others who will carry away $5,000 worth of gold dust, but then some of those men have been pros-pecting all through the Yukon dis-trict for several years past without scraping up more than enough to live on. All kinds Dyeing done. Furs of all kinds fixed at the most reasonable rates and perfect satisfaction guaranteed. P. O. 312, September 20, 1893, 6 mo.

If the news papers were but a little more honest in their notices of actors, singers, etc. there would be much less boasting going on in the world. Through press notices copied into the Brandon papers, Sara Lord Bailey had a much larger audience Friday than she otherwise would have had, and had the notices been less flattering there would have been fewer disappointed. Miss Bailey gives an entertainment that might do very well for an amateur but to put it mildly it is not up to the representations of the press in many substantial respects. It is doing her no injustice to say she is not an amateur artist, and in some of the pieces recited here she does not appear to fully comprehend the spirit of the authors.

All subscribers at Griswold can pay their arrears into the hands of Mr. V. this postmaster, who has the accounts. His receipts will be acknowledged by us.

Some of our young people are tempting danger these times by venturing out on the Assiniboine skating. Their parents should tell them the game is a very dangerous one.

We are glad to learn that the "PAIN KILLER" is having a large sale in our city. We have every reason to believe it is a medicine that no family should be without. Only 25c for a big bottle.

It is our opinion the city will make a serious mistake if they hold a tax sale this fall. There will be no buyers so the corporation will have to buy all in itself, and this will put nothing into the treasury. The absence of buyers, will only be another kick at the reputation of the city in its present financial tightness.

A sad closing of the World's Fair was the shooting of Mayor Harrison, of Chicago, by another wretch like Giteau, the murderer of Pres. Garfield. The murderer's only excuse is that Harrison promised him a situation, and did not give it to him. No doubt he is partially, if not wholly, insane.

A number of delinquents have remitted in response to our duns, but a large number are still in arrears. We know times are hard but any one man can better afford to remit us from $1.50 to $10 as his account may be, then we can to him out of thousands of dollars. As we said a few weeks ago, all out standing dues must be paid at once or court costs will follow. We may better collect than suffer, and we are going to do it.

Mr. T. E. Greenwood, of Douglas, had a letter addressed to the Bank here, filled of its contents on its way up Monday last. The envelope arrived but the contents did not. As, however, the contents were shipping bills, etc. of use to no one besides himself and the banks he can lose nothing. The affair is being looked after.

English Spavin Liniment removes all, hard, soft or exploded lumps and Blemishes from horses, Blood Spavins, Curbs, Splints, Ring Bone, Sweeney, Stiffles, Sprains, Sore and Swollen Throat, Coughs, etc. Save $50 by use of one bottle. Warranted the most wonderful Blemish Cure ever known. Sold by N. J. Halpin, Druggist.

The Brandon correspondent of the Free Press hints the name J. A. Christie for Mayor. As we said in a previous issue, if Mayor McDermid does not desire re-election, and if Mr. Caldwell will take it, he is pre-eminently entitled to it, and no better man can be got for the position. If he too cannot be persuaded to accept, then some other of the present board should be elected. The affairs of the city are now in such a state that none but experienced men and those of marked ability should receive seats at the board. We have not a word to say against Mr. Christie, but the principle of promotion is a good one to observe when it can be done to advantage.

Post offices and Railway Stations.

Brandon Conservative Club.

While wending my way around town a handsome sign in Blue and Gold attracted my attention, depicting therein the words, Brandon Conservative Club, crowned by the Union Jack in colors. My curiosity being further aroused, I opened the door, this introduced me to the Club Rooms. I was pleased to see evidences of well spent hours by the members. Laying upon the tables were the leading papers of all shades of politics, periodicals, magazines etc. and in their places all manner of Games for the social employment of the Clubites.

The Rooms are very artistically decorated in ingrain paper of a warm hue giving a cheerful aspect, nicely frescoed in appropriate design and colors, the work having been executed by Mr. Sharp, who has excelled himself in endeavoring to make the Club Rooms a joy for ever.

The object of the Club is one that is to be commended. A member drops in, topics of the day are discussed, if he feels like playing a game, he does so; dull times, for the present are forgotten. While a relief from the ordinary world of dullness, except of course for the Member's subscription fee and this is so low that one is astonished at how like a Club can be run. The Club venture is a great success as seen by the daily attendance of its members. The Club extends a cordial invitation to all Conservatives in Brandon and district. The rooms are comfortably heated by hot water and lighted by electricity. They are open from 2 to 11 p. m.

A whilst tournament is now engaging the attention of the members.
